Federal Regiment Halsed in Ar-Rumnnn.

General Currys, since his arrival near Little Rock, Arkansas, has recruited a regiment of infantry for the Federal srmy.

A True Patriot,

The Hon. PAUL DILLINGHAM, the well known leader of the Democracy of Vermont, was recently nominated by a Democratic State Convention for Governor. Mr. D. declined, upon the sole ground that at this time there can be but two parties, one for maintaining the government unconditionally, and the other for overthrowing it. In the course of his letter of declination he says:

"We must for the time forget whether we be Republicans or Democrats. In such a union there will be strength and efficiency, and if we differ hereafter, let it be to settle the question, who did the most for his country. Let us act together, act honestly, efficiently, and let him wear the honors who fairly wins them. I feel very confident that a great number-I hope a majority—of all the old parties in this State feel and judge as I do, and that they will rise above party, as such, and stand for their country, one and indivisible, now and forever. With such I mean to act, whether their number be few or many, till this most wicked re-bellion is crushed out; and wishing that my opinions and acts may be in harmony, I have felt called upon to decline the nomination so honorably tendered to

Who are Abolitionists?

Judge S. M. BRECKINBIDGE made a powerful speech in the Missouri State Convention a day or two since, in which was the following truthful passage:

I think I may say, that without any opinion on this subject that would justify the charge, there is not a man to be found in the State of Missouri who has not already been denounced as an Abolitionist, when, in point of fact, he is as far removed from them as he is in thought or sympathy from those who prefer the charge. This charge has been so often and so flippantly made, that I have come to consider it as, perhaps, the most unfailing test of a man's loyalty, that he had been denounced as an Abolitionist. That man who has been so successful in tempering his lovalty throughout this struggle as to avoid incurring the hostility of the class engaged in treason, and their sympathizers, to such an extent as not to incur the application of that epithet, I will not say he is not loyal, but I will say his loyalty has, in all probability, not borne any very distinguished fruits.

Horses for the United States cavalry are pouring in from all parts of the country to the national stables, at the Carlisle barracks, Pa. They are chiefly for the regular troops, and will be trained as well as can possibly be done before they are wanted for the field. The ridingmasters have to remain in the saddle seven or eight hours a day since the war began. Their experience proves what is not generally known-that the nervousness of touch in the horse is more easily subdued than that of sudden flashes on the sight.

The New York Herald says the present liabilities of the Southern Confederacy approximate to the following figures:

Borrowed from banks, - $50,000,000 State aid, to be reimbursed, 45,000,000 Due bills for property seized, 65,000,000 destroyed, 40,000,000 65,000,000

Death of Richard Yeadon, Jr. From the Lynchbong Virginish

We must lament the sad intelligence conveyed in the following note, and ten-der our sincere sympathies to its bereaved author "I came to Richmond at the carpest request of my gallant nephew and adopted son, Richard Yeadon, Jr., to witness and chronicle the battle of the Chickahominy, the greatest battle of the war;' but alas! he has been slain by the accursed Yankees, and I have to chronicle his death. He was killed, between 5 and 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon, (about an hour and a half after I had parted from him and bidden him farewell, near the scene of his death,) while he was gallantly charging a battery of the enemy, concealed in a thicket-having been shot through the head and dying immediately. The enemy repulsed the attacking party, with overwhelming numbers, killing my son and three others of his company (the Washington Light Infantry, Hampton Legion) and wounding a great many more. "RICHARD YEADON."

This is a natural grief, and may therefore be pardoned, but Mr. "RICHARD YEApox" can now, in his own loss, feel what civil war is. It was begun in his own State of South Carolina, and this very "Hampton Legion" were the first to take up arms against the Union flag and the National Government. Every such case is a terrible though righteous retribution for the treason, the cruelty and the wickedness of the leading men of South Carolina. They who take the sword shall perish by the sword, and South Carolina, as the chief instigator in deeds of blood which has cost the North and South thousands of lives, should turn her curses upon her RHETTS, PICKENSES, and kindred spirits, who fired the Southern heart to treason and rebellion.

Thurlow Weed's Report on our Foreign Relations.

Thurlow Weed arrived at New York on the steamer Persia. The New York

Mr. Weed, accompanied by his friends and escorted by the committee, then proceeded to the Astor Aouce, where breakfast was partaken of, Alderman Smith presiding at the table. During the course of the meal national affairs were freely discussed, and Mr. Weed, speaking freely, and possibly not thinking how much weight his words would carry, remarked:

The state of public sentiment abroad was far from gratifying. The French Government cherished no friendly sentiment towards us, and the people were little better. But Prince Napoleon was our sincere, earnest friend, and lost no occasion to do us friendly offices.

The British ministry was divided. Lord Palmerston and Earl Russell were adverse to us; other members of the Cabinct were warmly affected towards the North. The Queen, whenever she could say a word, always expressed a sympathy with us. Prince Albert had always been a devoted friend of this country, and his last public act had been to modify a dispatch which the ministry had prepared to send to Lord Lyons.

The general unfriendly sentiment cherished toward us in the Old World, Mr. Weed attributed to the treacherous conduct of our diplomatic agents abroad .-Full one-third of them had for years been engaged in preparing the public mind in Europe for the contemplated revolution, and a large number of Southern Congressmen had participated in the treason. We in America could have but an imperfect idea of the condition of popular sentiment on that Continent.

Dr. Russell, of the London Times, was one of our best friends in England. He took every occasion to express his sympathy for the North. He spoke at the clubs, to members of Parliament, to everybody whom he encountered. He pronounced our army as the finest in the world; the raw recruits were equal to veterans in other countries.

Capitalists were surprised most of all. Our country was dismembered and its extinction threatened by civil war of monstrous proportions; yet we met all the expenses, and were able to do so for ten years, without recurrence to foreign contributions, and our funds had not depreciated since the breaking out of hostilities. There was no other country in the world capable of such a financial achievement. America was truly independent.

Offer of Amnesty in Missouri.

General Schofield, commanding the Missouri State militia, has issued an order, in which he says:

Those who have been in arms against the United States, or have sided the rebellien, and now desire to become good and loyal citizens, may surrender themselves and their arms at the nearest military post, and will be released, upon subscribing to the usual oath and giving bond with approved security for their future loyal conduct. They will hereafter be free from military arrest, so long as they shall, in good faith, observe and keep the conditions of their oath and bond; or if, in any particular case, it shall be deemed by the military authorities inexpedient to release, with the promise of future protection, he will be released and placed in the same condition as he was before his voluntary sur-

All officers and men of this command are reminded that it is their duty, while punishing with unmeasured severity those who still persist in their efforts destroy the peace the State, not only to abstain from molestation, but to protect from injury all loyal and peaceable citizens.

Brutal Outrage.

We are informed that on yesterday a squad of rebel cavalry visited the premises of a gentleman living near Smyrna in Entherford county, and requested him to burn his cotton. The gentleman very properly refused to comply with the modest request, whereupon he was informed that if he did not comply they would kill two of his negro fellows who happened to be standing by. He again refused to obey, when they fired, killing one of the negroes and mortally wounding the other. In a short time after the committal of this most fiendish act, the up train from Nashville arrived, and its guard put in pursuit and captured four or five of the murderous scoundrels, who, we are informed, are in jail at Murfreesboro' .-

Extra Billy Smith, of the 40th Viraken 25,000 prisoners ginia regiment, was wounded at Fair The Western Rams.

The Col. Chas. Ellet, Jr., whose rams destroyed the rebel fleet on the Mississippi, opposite Memphis, is the same person who has been for years urging the government to build rams as a means of naval warfare. At the commencement of the war he fairly board the Navy Department with his advocacy of the efficacy of these novel implements of naval attack, and of course met the fate of all innovators upon established routine. success of Hollins' turtle Manassass last summer emboldened him and he appealed again to Mr. Welles, but with no better success. At that time he published a pamphlet on the subject, which he sent to all the newspapers as well as to the members of the Government. In this production he predidicted that the rebels would inflict incalculable damage upon or wooden ships of war by means of rams which he was informed they were building. The prow of the Merrimac shortly afterwards gave a point to his predictions that let a little light into the head of the Navy Department, but still Mr. Eflet was neglected. During last winter however, Mr. Ellet had the good luck to write a couple of very severe pamphlets endeavoring to discredit General McClellan with the Government and the country. Fortunately he succeeded no better in this than in his previous enterprise, but it procured him the notice and countenance of Secretary Stanton, who a short time since gave him a contract to fit up a fleet of rams on the Mississippi to but the life out of the rebel gunboats. He has succeeded and deserves well of the country. His appraciation of the necessity of these novel vessels in our navy at a time when no one else could be persuaded of their usefulness is creditable to his scientific foresight, and should insure his fortune. We are informed that one of the pastors of our city actually appointed a prayer-meeting last Sabbath night to especially pray for the raising of the blockade, and that he called on God in fervent prayer to strike Lincoln's ships with lightning, and scatter them to the four winds of Heaven! The idea of a secession preacher hearing and setting up at a throne of grace-like a ram at a gatepost-asking God to raise Lincoln's blockade, is a bright idea, and a rich conception in our judgment. That Charches throughout the country have become demoralized, that preachers have prostituted themselves for secession, is as plain as the nose on a man's face ; but it does not yet appear that the Almighty has mixed himself up with any

This parson was Rev. Mr. Harrison pastor of the first Presbyterian Church in Knoxville. He held his prayer-meeting, and, assisted by several old clericals made a desperate effort to raise the blockade. God, in answer to their prayer, gave them a lift on Roanoke Island, some weeks after the prayer-meeting, when the entire rebel forces were either killed or taken prisoners by Burnside's blockading squadron.

This man Harrison is the same preacher who boasted in his pulpit that Jesus Christ was a Southern born man, on Southern soil, and so were his Apostles, except Judas, whom he denominated a Northern man. Speaking of the Bible, he would sooner have a Bible printed and bound in Hell, than one printed and bound north of Mason and Dixon's Line.

Hints to Writers of Business Lettersa

"It would be well for merchants and others, when mailing valuable letters, to do so in such a manner that legal proof can, if necessary, be produced to substantiate the fact of such letters having been actually deposited in the mails It is customary to prepare such letters and hand them to a post office messenger for mailing, without calling special attention to them, and thus, in case of loss, no one is able to swear positively to the essential fact that the missing letters were actually mailed. In a recent case, tried at Rochester, this embarrassing state of things existed, and would have defeated justice, but for other strong pre sumptive evidence that the letter did get into the mails. A memorandum-bool kept in every counting-house, in which the fact of the mailing of valuable letters may be recorded by the person actually mailing them, would involve but little trouble, and might prove of incalculable benefit."—Boston Courier.

Charleston,

THE CITY UNDER MARTIAL LAW. From the Charleston Morcury, May 14.

This day, at noon, martial law takes the place of civil authority in Charleston. At a juncture like the present, doubiless, there are good reasons for thus placing the govromout of our noble city in military ha If the officers, who have been invested with control of effairs in our midst, exercise their functions with wisdom, firmness and law will prove to be a welcome as well as a beneficial measure. The people of this community will cheerfully conform to the regulations of the military commandars, and, as far as our resident population are concerned we do not doubt that Charleston will be found, even in these troublous days of ex-citement and blood, to maintain its anciens iame for quiet and good order.

But there is another point, on which we deem it right to speak out, plainly and at once. There are quite a number of Confed crate troops now encamped in our city, and we hear that others are soon to arrive. feel assured that the vast majority of these soldiers are men werthy of their State, and worthy the great cause in support of which they have shouldered their muskets. But there are some among them whose conduct during the short time they have been here has been such as to bring disgrace upon the commands to which they are attached

It has repraiedly bappened, within the last few days, that lautes have been rudely acpeted and insuited by soldiers in the public horoughtures. In sone instances. of the most flagrant character have been committed, with perfect impunity, by men wearing the uniform of Southern Volunteers. We do not know who the offenders are, but we do know that, in the City of Charleston, such nots exceed and will not be allowed to

A gentleman who last week visited the Alger manufactory, at Boston, states that four hundred men are still working day and night, and turn out daily numbers of brass gons weighing four tons each, and iron guns that will throw balls of four hundred pounds weight, beside twelve hundred weight daily of conical shells, twelve hundred weight of mortar shells, and a large amount of other war material. Among these last are some new engines of destruction, whose effects as tested by experiments are peculiarly.

A New Ballad of Lord Lovell,

THE BRAVE DEFENDER OF NEW ORLEANS

Lord Lovall not in St. Charles Hotel, In St. Charles Hotel sat be, As one account a Robel swell As ever you'd wish to see sec-see, at ever you'd wish to see.

Lord Lovell the form had vowed to defend, A waying his owner on high; Research that his low outco of powder he'd spend, And in the last direk he'd dis.

He swote by black, and he swote by blue, He swote by the stars and Bars. That never he'd fly from a Yaukes grow While he was a son of Mars.

He had fifty thousand gallagt men, Fifty thousand men had be, Who had all sworn with him that they'd never Der to any tarastion Vankee.

He had forts that he Yankee alive could take He had from clad heats a store, And lutteries all around the lake, And along the river shore,

Fir Parragut came with a mighty fleet, With a mighty fleet came he, And Lord Loved Instanter began to retreat Brieve the drek boat he could see.

He tity thousand gallant men
Dwindled down to thousands six ;
They heard a distant cannon and then
Commenced a cutting their sticks.

"Oh tarry, Lord Lavell I" Sir Parragut cried, "Oh tarry, Lord Loveit," said he; I rather touck not," Lord Loveil replied, "For I'm in a great hurry,"

"I like the dylaks at St. Charles' Hotel, But I never would bear strong Porter, Especially whon it is served in the abell, Or mixed in an iron morter."

"I recken you're right," Sir Farragut said, "I recken you're right," said du. For if my Porter should by to your head, a territie smash there'd be."

th) a wonder it was to see them run, A wonderful thing to say, And the Yankoes salled in without abouting a gan, And aptured their great citie. Lord Lorell kept remaing all day and night,

For he swore be couldn't abide the sight Of the gun of a live Yankee. When Lord Lovell's life was brought to a close, By a sharp shooting Yankee gunner, From his head there sprouted a red rose, From his feet—a Scarlet Runner.
